STARVING CUBANS.

Eleven Thousand Homeless and Destitute Persons in Matanzas III in the Streets.

Spanish Mock the Victims—Over 11,000 Deaths During the Past Year, and the Death Rate Increasing.

Santiago, de Cuba, Feb. 24.—While the United States cruiser Montgomery was at Matanzas recently a board of officers was appointed to inquire into the condition of the people of that province. Although the exact terms of the report are not known, it may be said in substance it sets forth that there are 14,000 people absolutely without food and clothing within the city limits. About 3,000 of these live in small huts of palm branches. These form the built-up portions of the city. The other 11,000 unfortunate live in the streets of the city and are absolutely without homes or shelter. These 14,000 people are of the laboring class, who have been driven into the cities from their country homes, which have been destroyed in the war operations. Most of them are women and children, and they are all emaciated, sick and almost beyond relief unless they can have the benefit of regular treatment in the hospitals. As it is, they are dying in the streets for want of food.

According to statistics gathered from the best sources, the number of deaths in the province of Matanzas from starvation is 59,000, and the number of starving people at present in the province is estimated at 98,000, out of a total population of 238,616 in December, 1927, and the number of starving people is rapidly increasing.

In the city of Matanzas alone there have been about 11,000 deaths in the past year, and the number is increasing daily. The death rate at present averages forty-six per day, as shown by the reports from the cemetery. The fact that the distress is no longer confined to the laboring class, most of whom have already perished. It has now extended to those people who before the war were in moderately comfortable circumstances. Those who are now begging in the streets were, in a large part, well-to-do people. In addition, the citizens of the city of Matanzas themselves are beginning to suffer for the actual necessities of life, having drained their resources in order to supply the needs of the laboring class who have been quartered upon them.

The citizens of Matanzas have an organized system of relief for the starving people, but it is entirely inadequate and is daily becoming more glaringly so, for the resources of those who were well-to-do are rapidly diminishing, while the demand for food is constantly increasing.

HURRIED PREPARATIONS FOR WAR.

No Abatement in the War Feeling and Preparations by the National Government.

BELIEVED TODAY TO BE INEVITABLE.

No Definite News Yet of the Manner of the Explosion That Wrecked the Maine.

Washington, Feb. 24.—It is still the general belief here today that war with Spain is unavoidable. The latest from Havana only confirms the belief now becoming general that the Maine was blown up by a Spanish torpedo; though it is not believed that should this be proved, it would be possible to prove that the Spanish government had anything to do with it. While even this would not be a cause of war, it would lead to complications that in the excited state of feeling in this country and Spain would lead to war. The certainty that autonomy is a failure also makes ultimate intervention by the United States to end the Cuban war a matter of positive certainty. The administration while silent is, certainly preparing for war on a gigantic scale.

Washington, Feb. 24.—An order has been issued to the marines throughout the United States to hold themselves in readiness to move at a moment's notice.

It is thought probable that a detachment may be sent from the Marine Barracks here to Key West at once to strengthen the naval forces in the Gulf's waters.

Then there will be a number of vessels placed in commission within a very short time for which marines would be needed and they can move without delay. There are about 300 marines in this city available for duty.

This step is in harmony with the war preparations now being made in all branches of the service.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Secretary Long yesterday afternoon received the following telegram from Admiral Sicard:

Key West, Feb. 23.—Long, secretary navy: Court recommends contact with best equipped wrecking company to move material and lift ship without delay. Forward half completely destroyed after half apparently intact except in minor particulars.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 24.—Senator Proctor arrived yesterday in Tampa. It is said that from Tampa he will proceed to Key West. High officials are authority for the statement that he will be met by some one in Key West bearing important dispatches for the president. It is known that Sunday the Plant system had a special train ready to convey Gen. Lee from Key West to Washington. Plans were changed. Gen. Lee did not arrive. Now these officials say that Senator Proctor will either meet the consul general at Key West or a special messenger sent by him, then hurry back to Washington.

Warships Sailing Toward Havana Harbor.

Washington, Feb. 24.—What looks so much like the administrations fears a serious rupture with Spain, is the fact that the warships that are in condition are being pushed toward Havana harbor.

Reports from Fort Thomas Ky., across from Cincinnati, say activity there just now indicates a hurried preparation for some emergency.

While all the troops were under special discipline with extra drilling Col. Cochran, the commandant, and other officers refused to be interviewed. Yesterday the troops were supplied with 150 rounds each. Battery B of Ohio national guard, under Capt. Herman, today advertised for recruits.

The battleship Texas and gunboat Nashville sailed from Galveston, Texas, yesterday afternoon. The Texas goes to rejoin Admiral Sicard's fleet, and the Nashville to Key West for orders. It has been reported that the Nashville would be sent to Havana to replace the Maine.

Under Sealed Orders.

Portsmouth, Va., Feb. 24.—The big double-turreted monitor Terror sailed today under sealed orders. It is believed she is going to Havana.

Panicky Feeling in Chicago.

New York, Feb. 24.—Stocks took a slump today from four to nine cents today on Cuban war scare. The feeling on Wall street is very panicky.

WON'T SELL CUBA.

Spain Will Not Dispose of the Island Under Any Circumstances.

New York, Feb. 24.—A dispatch to the Herald from Madrid says: As the question of the purchase of Cuba is again being pushed in Washington it may be of use to state, on the highest authority, that Spain will never, no matter what government is in power, consider any such suggestion or any compromise in Cuba beyond the broad measure of autonomy drafted by the liberal government. This is an absolute, irrevocable decision. People who suggest anything else are only wasting time and arousing unsounded hopes.

Probable Suicide.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Past Assistant Surgeon Bailey, of the U. S. navy, died this morning in his room at the hotel. It is believed to be a case of suicide.

Wheat Lower.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Wheat kept two cents under yesterday, on account of war news.

New York, Feb. 24.—Most stocks lost heavily on Cuban war news and things looked like a panic but the situation is slightly better this afternoon.

M'KINLEY WILL ACT.

Will Take a Decided Stand When His Convictions are Confirmed.

But the War Department Still Says That There Is No News of Importance.

Washington, Feb. 24.—President McKinley is said to have told friends that he was only waiting to get his honest convictions confirmed in order to take a stand that would please the most radical friends of Cuba. It is believed that the President has abandoned the theory that the loss of the Maine was an accident.

The war and state departments still protest that there is no news of importance.

SUPPLIES BURIED.

Avalanche Covers Up All Belongings of Alaska Argonauts.

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 24.—Two weeks ago an avalanche came thundering down the mountain slopes, and at the south end of Lake Bennett an immense mass of snow and ice was deposited on the trail, and 200 tons of supplies were buried many feet. Their owners had stacked them together in what seemed to be sheltered spot, while they were whipsawing lumber for boat building.

Now they have left only the whipsaw and are trying to dig out their outfits. So far as learned no one was injured by the avalanche, though people in tents not far away had a narrow escape.

BIG WHEAT DEAL.

Christian County Farmers Sell 35,000 Bushels for $35,000.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 24.—A combine of Christian county farmers Tuesday sold to a milling company here 35,000 bushels of wheat for $35,000 cash. This practically closes out the wheat crop of the county.

MARKETS.

In the circuit court today the motion for a new hearing in the case of Miss Mary B. E. Greif against the Wm. Greif estate was argued, but at press time no decision had been made.

The lunacy case against Mrs. Thad Gish has not yet been tried.

ANOTHER LYNCHING AT MAYFIELD.

Richard Allen, of Clarksville, Tenn., Hanged in the Court House Yard About Midnight By a Mob.

HIS OFFENSE WAS BURGEARY.

Piteously Pleaded to Be Spared—Then to Be Shot—Broke Into a House Last Sunday.

Richard Allen, a negro from Clarksville, Tenn., but who had for some time been a resident of Mayfield, was lynched at Mayfield, by a mob last night for burglary attempted Sunday night at the residence of Mr. J. A. Wright.

The mob was composed of at least 300 people. It was one of the most orderly and undemonstrative ever known, not an oath being heard, nor any disorder of any description manifested. There wasn't even a pistol shot.

Yesterday afternoon Allen and another negro were tried before the judge in Mayfield for the burglary. Allen was positively identified by Mr. Wright as the man who entered his house and pointed a pistol at him, while there was no evidence at all against the other man. Allen was held over for grand jury action and the other was released. It being certain that Allen was the right man, a determined effort was developed to lynch him.

About 8 o'clock the mob began to form. Everybody was quiet and orderly, and about midnight the men began to file slowly towards the jail. Four or five went to the jailer and demanded the keys, threatening to hang him if he resisted. He could do nothing but comply with the request.

The doors were unlocked, and only two of the leaders went inside after the prisoner, the others standing guard on the outside. The cell door was unlocked.

The men then emerged with the trembling prisoner, the rope being around his neck.

He begged piteously for his life. The mob filed quietly in the rear of the leaders, the doomed man being led to a tree near by. He continued to plead, but to no avail.

The rope was drawn taut and his form went up. He struggled, and his hand not having been tied, grasped the rope. He was lowered and asked to tell all he knew. He refused, protesting his innocence. His hands were tied with a light cord, and still pleading and praying and protesting, he was again swung up. This time he broke the cords that bound his hands, and again grasped the rope around his neck. He had to be lowered again.

This time he began telling the names of six or seven negroes alleged to have been engaged in systematic stealing in Mayfield. He said he was not guilty, but that the man acquitted yesterday was the guilty man, and the one who pointed the pistol at Mr. Wright.

"I ain't the man," he said time and again, "You're hanging the wrong man."

He was particularly bitter against the negro acquitted yesterday. "You people think I'm guilty, but I'm not," he said. He was pretty badly strangled the second time he was lowered, and realized that the mob was determined to hang him. He continued to plead, but deeming it useless, finally said that his home was in Clarksville, Tenn., and that the men whose names he had given were more guilty than he, and if they were going to hang him, they ought to hang them also.

He then begged to be shot, saying he did not want to be hanged, that he didn't want to die that sort of death. If he had to die, he wanted to be shot. Nobody would shoot him, however.

His hands were this time securely tied, and he was for the last time hauled up. He twisted and struggled awhile and then slowly strangled to death.

The mob quietly dispersed the men going home with as much concern as if they had been to church. There was still no disorder, and no effort was made to capture any of the negroes the dying man named in his ante-mortem statement. The men said they did not believe a word he said.

No efforts were made at secrecy, and the mob was decidedly the most orderly that ever did business in Mayfield.

Allen was a negro about 22 years old, slim and youthful looking. He had been around Mayfield for some little time, and asked that his body be shipped to Clarksville, Tenn. for burial.

Allen's crime was an unusually daring one. He prized open a window at Mr. J. A. Wright's residence Sunday and left it propped up with a stick. He then opened the door and propped it with a fruit jar. Mr. Wright was awakened by the draft, and when he looked up Allen raised up from behind the bed with a pistol leveled at the victim. The latter was scared, and yelled as he made a grab for him, "You black scoundrel." The negro kept the pistol leveled at Mr. Wright, backing cautiously towards the door. When he reached this he made a dash for the outside and escaped. Mr. Wright telephoned Chief McNutt, and furnished a description of the robber, which led to his ultimate arrest.

Allen was found at his house near Wright's coal yard, Monday morning. He was asleep when Sheriff Dought and Officer Ben Williams called for him, and was reluctant about responding to their knocks. An overcoat stolen from Mr. Wright was found near Allen's house. A tack in his shoe corresponded with the imprint in one of the tracks left by the marauder.

He denied the charge on which he was arrested. He was committed to jail, and a sentiment against such offenders immediately began to brew, the result being resolute but orderly men organizing a mob.

It was reported today that two negroes had been hung instead of one but this proved to be an error. It all started from an effort made to capture Tom Holmes, the negro Allen claimed was the real robber who pointed a pistol at Mr. Wright. He escaped however.

The remains of Allen were left hanging in the court house yard until 11 o'clock this morning, when they were cut down and an inquest was held, the verdict of the coroner's jury being that he came to his death at unknown hands. This afternoon it had not been decided what disposition would be made of the remains.

A placard was attached to the corpse by the mob, warning four or five other negroes to leave town or suffer the consequences. This afternoon it was thought they all had left town.

It was thought last night that Will Tuttle, colored, who killed his wife at Mayfield would also be hanged, but the officers persuaded the mob to not molest him.

A later report from Mayfield says that other negroes implicated in the robbery were run out of town. One was caught near Pysbury, below Mayfield, and was unmercifully whipped before going.

People from Mayfield claim that the sentiment of the town is against the lynching, and that everything is quiet and no more trouble is feared. The mob is said to have been composed largely of country people.

AFTER BOB BLANKS.

Detective Wickliffe and Others Have an Exciting Chase.

One of Detective Wickliffe's Bloodhounds Dies.

Detective W. A. Wickliffe, Henry Littlemyer and Bob Graham, the two latter of the county, had an exciting chase last night after a negro supposed to be Bob Blanks.

The detective went to Palestine church last night after the other two men. Their chase was fruitless however, and if the man was Blanks he escaped.

One of Detective Wickliffe's bloodhounds, after working night before last and yesterday, the animal died. It was valued at $100.

THURSDAY, FEB. 24, 1898

The average Daily Circulation of the Sun for the year 1897 was 1589 copies, as shown by the daily records of the office and proved by the sworn affidavits of four responsible men.

The Sun claims the largest circulation of any daily paper in Paducah. From the day of its first issue it has made its circulation public and asks its advertisers to make a complete investigation of its circulation books at any time. No other paper in Paducah will state its circulation.

The I. C. road is doing the large majority of the traffic between Paducah and Memphis and the South. The roadbed and equipments are superior and comfortable. This line commends itself to the traveling public by its superior speed and accommodations, as well as the courtesy and promptness of its officers and agents.

The latest military company in Kentucky to don its war paint is that of Owensboro. That martial aggregation is all ready to start for Cuba. It is the private opinion of Kentuckians that we could whip Spain all by our lonesomeness. Paducah has a large contingent of anxious warriors with their ears to the ground listening for the first shot, and they are all game fighters, too.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature to take Cumberland county out of the Third district and put it into the Eleventh. Such a gerrymander would put Dr. Hunter into the district with Congressman Colson and a few other Republican war horses, and would lay the ground work for a lively scrap. But as long as John D. White has on his fighting clothes, the Eleventh district will get plenty of excitement.

The opposition that has sprung up at Frankfort among the Democratic members against the Goebel Force bill is not so much due to the innate devotion of Democracy to fair play and a fair count, as to the fact that the enactment of the Goebel bill into law means Goebel for the gubernatorial and Joe Blackburn for the senatorial nominations. This wholesale blighting of the budding hopes of divers aspiring politicians is not at all pleasing to the friends of the ones who would thus be affected. Hence the frosty atmosphere that envelops the Goebel bill.

THERE may be some uncertainties in politics, but the issue that will be pushed to the front by the Bryan Democrats is not one of them. That the United States should freely coin all silver offered at the mints at the ratio of 16 to 1, and that too without regard to the action of other nations, will be the leading plank in the Democratic platform at the congressional elections of 1898. The advocates of the single gold standard, whether affiliating with the Republican party or the Sound Money wing of Democracy may make up their minds that the issues must be fought over again this coming summer and most probably again in 1900.

WHEN in the olden days corporations sought privileges, as well as subscriptions, from the city, all sorts of promises were made to the citizens. In some instances these promises have been made good, in a firm and substantial manner. In one of the last grants of right-of-way and $100,000 bonds, a railway company bound itself and assigns to build machine shops in Paducah and gave bond to that effect in the sum of $15,000. Up to the present time this company has made a bare pretense of building shops. In fact the most of the repairs for this road, is done in Louisville, Memphis or Nashville. It is probable if an engine should be ditched within the city limits, the company would take it to their "shops" and have the mud cleaned off or maybe a screw tightened. The "shops" business of the company is bold pretense, and it ought to be looked into, and have a substantial compliance with the contract—either pay the bond, or put up good shops. The city gave a bonus to secure shops, for the benefit of its workmen and increase of population of the city.

It was known at the last meeting of the council that the city is paying out retail prices for all the prescriptions made by the city physician in charity and hospital practice. It is little short of waste and careless administration. A proposition was made to buy drugs at wholesale, and that the city physician dispense them. A councilman openly stated that the city could buy its drugs at wholesale prices and hire a competent pharmacist to take charge of a dispensary, and yet the city would save from 40 to 60 per cent. Dr. Robertson, who knows whereof he speaks, says that if the city will buy its drugs at wholesale and the city physician dispense them, he will guarantee to save in the next ten years enough money to build and equip a $15,000 hospital. No one, perhaps, understands the subject any better than himself. The people are, not going to be satisfied with such extravagant modes of administration in hospital service, and elsewhere. It was not expected the Register would offer any criticism on the extravagance, as it is "public printer," with the "largest circulation of any paper in the state." But the venerable News is as silent as the foot falls of fate. What is the reason this bold advocate of economy and the people's rights offers no comment on the transaction? Could such a thing be, that it "got a piece of the pork"? Talk up, gentlemen, and let the matter be discussed.

WHILE the position of the Democratic party on the money question is very clear cut and concise, that of the Republican party is not equally as clear. Republicans seem content to reaffirm the platform of 1896. That platform was clear enough and advanced enough at the time it was adopted, but it is evident that the people expect some progressive move by the Republican party on the currency question. President McKinley was true to the Republican platform in that he made an attempt to secure international bimetalism, but the bimetallic commission failed utterly in enlisting European nations and that commission only proved that international bimetalism is but a political wisp. Secretary Gage made positive suggestions to Congress as to possible reforms in the currency and President McKinley suggested reforms that he thought to be practical. But Congress is doing nothing. As a political move, if for nothing else, the republican majority in the House of Representatives ought to pass a law that will meet the demands for currency reform, even if it fails in the Senate. The President has made his suggestions, and so has the Secretary of the Treasury, but the action of the Republican majority in the House of Representatives is necessary clearly to outline the Republican policy. But even if Congress does nothing, as is quite probable, for a reform bill would hardly pass the Senate, the general position of the Republican party is well known. Nothing will be done to impair the credit of the country and the parity of the gold and silver currency will be preserved. No backward steps will be taken.

HOW HE WOULD SEND THE MONEY.
There is in one of the prominent hotels a youngmailing clerk, who among the fair sex is considered quite an Adonis. This young man became smitten a year ago with one of the coryphees that come with such shows as "The Belle of New York," of and "One Round of Pleasure."

This girl struck the town not long ago as a member of an Extravaganza company. She renewed her acquaintance with the young man, and when she was about to leave she sent him a note asking that he would lend her $5 to help her get out of town. "How will you send it over?" she asked in a postscript to the letter which was filled with the usual chorus girl gush.

The young fellow carefully perused the letter. He is a wise one in his generation, and this is the answer he sent back penned at the bottom of the coryphee's missive:
"I'll think over."

ODD FELLOWS' HOME.

Lexington, Millersburg and Bowling Green Make Bids.

Location Will Be Decided By the Committee April 2.

The committee on location of the State Widows' and Orphans' Home to be built by the Odd Fellows met Tuesday afternoon in the grand secretary's office in Odd Fellows' Hall, on Walnut street, near Sixth. The full report of the meeting is given by the Courier-Journal as follows:

The committee consisting of Judge M. J. Durham, of Lexington, chairman; George W. Morris and Charles P. Hess, of Louisville; Grand Master John Gaunt, of Carrollton; Grand Secretary R. G. Elliott, of Lexington; Thomas Atkins, of Paducah; J. White Porter, of Bowling Green; Thomas James, of Newport; and Mrs. Sallie, of Lexington, went into session at 1 o'clock. Bids were received for the location from Bowling Green, Lexington and Millersburg. Speeches were made by representatives from each place, setting forth the advantages of each particular location.

Bowling Green sent a big delegation, consisting of Mayor G. E. Townsend, ex-Sheriff John D. Hines, Judge W. E. Settle, C. U. McElroy, Deputy Grand Master J. Whit Porter, Col. T. J. Smith, H. E. Jenkins, T. C. Mitchell and Henry Williams, controlling clerk of the lower house of the general assembly.

After the delegates had made their speeches the sealed bids were opened stating the amounts that each lodge would give to secure the home. Bowling Green bid $15,200, Lexington $14,000 and Millersburg offered the buildings and the five acres of ground of the Kentucky Wesleyan college located there. The general committee finally decided to refer the matter to a committee consisting of J. T. Gaunt, of Carrollton; William Lindsay, of Owenton; T. J. Atkins, of Paducah. The committee was instructed to visit each of the cities from which bids had been received and investigate fully the desirability of each place as a location for the home. The committee will visit Bowling Green March 30, Lexington March 31, Millersburg April 1, and

WRITTEN AT RANDOM

"I understand," quoth an old veteran yesterday at Broadway and Fourth, "that Mayor Lang is going to get 'thum' in Paducah loaded and sink them at the foot of the sand bar, to protect the harbor from Spanish gunboats." This piece of war news was not fully understood by a bystander, who chanced to see the mayor afterward and asked him about it.

"It's a mistake," explained the mayor. "I have issued orders to the police to pick up all the 'thums' they can find and let them go off with Boss Cooksey and the chain-gang. We need them in town. Such things oughtn't to be exploded."

Conductor W. Y. Hansbro, of the Illinois Central, has just returned from Sheffield, Ala., whither he went on a peculiar mission. He considers it a good joke. His wife has thirty fine chickens which she values very highly. Being somewhat troublesome to keep in a city the size of Louisville, she concluded to give the fowls to her sister at Sheffield. She so informed the jolly conductor, but insisted that she could not trust them alone, and would have to carry them in person. So he made arrangements to go down, boxed up the fowls, and then went to Sheffield with the chickens. After spending a couple of weeks, the owner decided that she could not part with the chickens, and conductor Hansbro had to box them up again and ship them back to Louisville, where they are now enjoying Kentucky life at the old stand.

Hott's "A Trip to Chinatown," a sparkling farce comedy that won popularity in Paducah at a previous production, will be presented at Morton's next Monday. As its merit is unquestioned, the prospects are for a large house.

John W. Bratton, author of the popular ballads, "Only Me," "The Sunshine of Paradise Alley," "Henrietta, I Love You in the Same Old Way," and a number of other very catchy songs, is the musical leader of "A Trip to Chinatown" company, and many of the new and taking numbers that are introduced to the public by the artists in "Chinatown" are from the pen of Mr. Bratton. He has made the music in "Chinatown" one of the chief charms of the performance. New scenery, new and tasteful ideas in costuming, and a complete and fresh equipment of songs and music, are the more prominent features which adorn the new production of this rich farce comedy.

Dr. Albert Bernheim, in speaking of the proposed ordinance respecting the city physician said today: "Everything is possible, it's another question if it is reasonable and practicable. A city physician in the city of Paducah can hardly dispense his own prescriptions, in my opinion, unless somebody has to suffer, either the physician or the patient. The physician because he would have to give all his time to the city patients and the making of the drugs; for the dispensing of only the candy tablets is quite unworthy of a scientific physician of today, for nothing is more nauseous and even dangerous than to treat the patient precisely alike because one patient is not like the other, and the physician has to treat the patient and not the disease. Many a remedy is good against a disease, but bad for the patient. Then another thing, the patient as well as the physician may have to suffer in the following way: The physician prescribes a medicine; the physician is only a man, he may make a mistake in prescribing and if he fills the prescription, he may make a mistake the second time. The patient has to suffer and the physician might in turn be sued for damages, if the patient pleases. But when a good prescriptionist sees the prescription, he can not help seeing the mistake, and so the error is repaired. In Germany the physicians are forbidden by law to be their own prescriptionists, and as I think, right with a good deal of reason.

"In Germany the doctor appointed for treatment of the city pauper prescribes the prescriptions and the drug stores have to fill them, and have to reduce the city bills 20 and 25 per cent. In many cities, there is for a certain precinct sometimes a certain drug store appointed for the dispensation, and this appointment changes every three or six months, so that no druggist has to suffer.

Another thing striking many a physician, is that the people, not only the city patients, are extra excited to ask for a prescription, as often as they come to the doctor's office and the physician visits the patient. Even the patient does not regard himself treated, when he does not get a prescription, and believes not to be liable to pay for this visit. This is quite a wrong view. Many a patient can be cured by other things than drugs. A correct diet, a clean room, a bath does very often more good than calomel and quinine. In the meeting of the Southwestern Kentucky Medical Association last year in May, Dr. Freeman, as I think, of Clinton, read a very sensible paper on medical education of the patients, and was very much applauded. The city physician should not be forced to dispense his own medicines, and nevertheless, the city bills for drugs could be reduced."

INJURIOUS FURS.

There have been within the past few seasons a number of cases of irritation of the skin of the outside of the throat. These have been attributed to several causes, but finally have been traced to the wearing of fur collars or coats. The first symptoms were a slight itching, then a pronounced rash and finally an acute inflammation that caused very serious discomfort.

The doctor who attributed the trouble to the fur declared that some poisonous chemical must have been used in its curing, and had the fur examined for arsenic and mercurial compounds, but failed to find any traces of dangerous or even injurious drugs.

The fur theory was beginning to fall into disrepute when some one suggested that the cause might be mechanical rather than chemical, and the furs were examined under a microscope and tested as to their ability to inflict injuries by contact with the skin. It was found that many of the hairs were very stiff and sharp pointed, sufficiently so to cause the irritation complained of. This discovery led to a careful looking over of a large number of furs, when it was suggested that the fur of old animals might be more rigid and irritating than that of young ones. This in turn seemed not to be a plausible theory, as almost all animals shed their coats yearly, and therefore the fur is new, or at least, partially so. A rather better reason may be that animals vary in the quality of their fur as human beings do in the quality of their hair. We all know people whose locks are almost as coarse as bristles and others whose tresses are like fine silk. Why should not all animals be the same? There is a surprising difference in the coats of horses and cattle, and there is no reason to suppose that those creatures that furnish the material for our garments are subject to any different peculiarities.

It is an admitted fact that a large number of persons are very susceptible to anything in the way of rough or scratchy clothing, it would be well for this class of individuals to take pains in buying furs, and select only those with the softest possible hairs.

Some children and, indeed, adults as well, are made uncomfortable to the verge of misery by ordinary qualities of flannel underwear or hose. Only the finer grades can be tolerated, and these only after they have been washed. It is very easy to say that such peculiarities are fancy and foolishness. When they occur in adults they may possibly be so, but little children, too young to understand why they suffer, are sometimes tortured for years before anyone finds out what is the matter with them.

And thousands of grown-up people endure all sorts of little discomforts and distresses in silence partly because they have been brought to think it foolish to complain and partly for the reason that they really know no other way to get along, and as they have from their cradles been taught to think they must suffer just about as much, they have turned philosophers and have learned to "grin and bear it."

All of our lives we have heard that we must out our neck of dirt under our collar, and that there is no reason why we should take it with a table-spoon or look with any degree of complacency on those who cater to our appetites if they are culpably careless, or that we should be annoyed and irritated by trifles that we can easily cure or avoid.—N. Y. Ledger.

HUMBERT AND HIS DOCTOR.

Anecdotes of the King of Italy and Dr. Carlo Saggiore.

The late death of Dr. Carlo Saggiore, private physician of King Humboldt, produced a general feeling of sorrow. Apart from his professional attainments, he was well known as a fine shot and a passionate lover of hunting. He had held the same office under King Vittorio Emanuele, and the present king, although he has a special dislike for doctors, regarded him and treated him as a friend. Dr. Saggiore spoke to me on one occasion of the strong constitution of the Italian sovereign, his passion for riding, hunting and other vigorous exercises. In the chase or at the maneuvers King Humboldt is always the first on horseback, and the late to dismount, fresh and smiling, when his companions are jaded and worn out. Dr. Saggiore was ever at his side—on the top of the snowy Alps chasing the wild goat and chamois, in the almost inaccessible forests of Castel Fusano hunting the wild boar, or on the immense sunny plains of Lombardy to pass in review thousands and thousands of soldiers.

Sometimes the king from his hunting lodge of Castel Fusano goes to the sea and amuses himself by shoveling sand into a cart. "Take care, your majesty," said Saggiore one day, "not to perspire too much." "Ah! my dear doctor," answered the king, resting his chin on his two hands, which grasped the handle of his spade, "this muscular exercise does me much more than your prescriptions." "Yes, but one must sweat nothing." "But I tell you that I feel very well and you are afraid you see in this poor shovel a competitor." And, laughing heartily, the king finished filling his cart.

However, by exposing himself in every way without stint, the king contracted bronchitis, which has taken a chronic form and has given him a rather troublesome cough. This cough was a source of anxiety to the faithful doctor, as he could not convince his patient of the necessity of taking medicine. Occasionally the doctor was even sent away abruptly by the king, who would say: "I have not called you. Why do you come? You may go. I thank you very much!" One evening, however, the deceased doctor thought he had gained his point, and he prepared for the king in his bedroom the powders he was to take during the night. The next morning Dr. Saggiore rose very early, as King Humboldt never sleeps on more than five hours, being very anxious to know the effect of his medicine. He was received in the bedroom, and at once asked: "Well, how does your majesty feel this morning?"

"Much better—I may say, quite well," was the response.

"Ah!" observed the doctor, rubbing his hands with satisfaction, "you see the result of listening to reason."

"Bravo!" cried King Humboldt. "Go into the next room and see what you can find."

The powders were in the waste-paper basket.

Dr. Saggiore had eventually to abandon his post, being struck down by paralysis, but King Humboldt, although obliged to have another physician in the person of Dr. Querico, would not replace him officially until his death—Rome Cor. Pall Mall Gazette.

JOKE ON A LAWYER.

Called on an Elderly Spinster to see About Her Divorce.

Speaking of jokes brings to my mind only one played on an attorney. He was a gentleman who had considerable practice in the divorce court, and some of his friends hit upon a scheme to take him down a peg. They went to a hotel and, securing the name of a lady guest from the register, they got one of their number who possessed a remarkable falsetto voice to telephone the lawyer to come and see this lady at the hotel on business. The attorney was naturally a little anxious as to the nature of the business, and he was informed in an indirect fashion that a divorce was wanted. Enough was said to let him infer that it would be a good case, with lots of fine advertising and, best of all, prospects of a good fee in the event of a successful issue.

The conspirators secreted themselves near the hotel parlors at the hour set and waited divinely.

"Ahem," said the attorney, "I called in response to your request."

"What request?" she asked, surprised.

"Um—er," the lawyer, "I was called."

"Why, what are you talking about?" she asked, abruptly.

"It's perfectly natural, madam, that you should wish to make no mistake. I called to see you about your divorce."

At the word divorce the lady almost sprang into the "phone."

"Shrieked, making for the button to call for assistance."

The attorney began to suspect that something was wrong and he began to interpret her so that he could make explanations, but this only frightened her the more, and she called out in a hoarse, shrill voice: "The bell!"

The bell came rushing up just as the lady came out of the parlor with the angriest face an old maid could muster. She swept by with her face white with rage, and the remaining conspirators fled.

"Take care of him," spoken contemptuously, the bellboy ran at the attorney, whose face looked blacker than a war map, and seized him by the arm.

He shoved a dollar in the bellboy's hand and said: "Get out of here!"

As it is an admitted fact that a large number of persons are very susceptible to anything in the way of rough or scratchy clothing, it would be well for this class of individuals to take pains in buying furs, and select only those with the softest possible hairs.

Some children and, indeed, adults as well, are made uncomfortable to the verge of misery by ordinary qualities of flannel underwear or hose. Only the finer grades can be tolerated, and these only after they have been washed. It is very easy to say that such peculiarities are fancy and foolishness. When they occur in adults they may possibly be so, but little children, too young to understand why they suffer, are sometimes tortured for years before anyone finds out what is the matter with them.

And thousands of grown-up people endure all sorts of little discomforts and distresses in silence partly because they have been brought to think it foolish to complain and partly for the reason that they really know no other way to get along, and as they have from their cradles been taught to think they must suffer just about as much, they have turned philosophers and have learned to "grin and bear it."

All of our lives we have heard that we must out our neck of dirt under our collar, and that there is no reason why we should take it with a table-spoon or look with any degree of complacency on those who cater to our appetites if they are culpably careless, or that we should be annoyed and irritated by trifles that we can easily cure or avoid.—N. Y. Ledger.

JOSHUA SIMPKINS.

Ladies' and Children's Matinee Saturday—Admission 15 and 25 cents.

Joshua Simpkins will appear at Morton's opera house Saturday afternoon and night.

It is said to be a well written pastoral play, with an interesting plot, the story being a happy blending of sunshine and shadow. The situations are said to be strikingly realistic, with an overflow of fun and amusement. There are seven comedy parts in addition to that of Uncle Josh, which character is really a whole show in itself. A sensational novelty is introduced in the third act in the shape of a realistic saw mill scene, in which a monster circular saw is used, and which is said to actually saw through real timber.

A SCHOOL SENSATION.

An Impudent Young Lady and Her Card.

She Had to Apologize—Was Transferred to Another School.

There has been a sensation of considerable proportions in one of the South Fourth street schools, but it did not leak out until today.

It appears a young lady wrote a short sentence on a card and passed it to another girl. She wrote, "I am the first girl in the school, who is naturally embarrassed when it accidentally fell into his hands."

He called the girl into the room, and she finally acknowledged that it was all a joke, and the card, with its contents, which would not look well in print, was turned over to Supr. McBroome.

The result of it all was that the offending young lady was transferred to another school. The matter was of course reported to the officials of the board, and although an effort has been made to suppress it, it has been of no avail.

MORE THIEVES

In the Lower Section of the County.

Three Farm Houses Entered by Them Last Night.

Thieves have broken loose again in the Massac section of the county. This morning, Mr. Henry Temple, Jr., of Maxon's Mills, came to the city to secure a detective.

Last night thieves broke into his meat house and stole two fifty-pound cans of lard, 18 cans of tomatoes, and all the canned preserves there. The goods must have been hauled off in a wagon.

Thieves also entered the house of Mr. Green Bennett, in the same neighborhood, but did not secure anything.

The house of Mr. Donaldson, the cross-roads blacksmith, was robbed of quite a quantity of meat. There have been a number of depredations in that section of the county lately, and there has thus far been obtained no clue to the thieves.

The officers of the new club are: Gus Brabie, Pres.; Frank Vincent, Vice. Pres. Will How, Sec.; William Harper, Treas.

Both base ball and foot ball clubs will be maintained, and much sport is promised to Paducahans.

WORK STOPPED

On a Private Sewer Being Built at the West End.

Mayor Lang Refers the Matter to the Board of Health.

There is likely to be trouble in the West end over a sewer some of the residents in the West side of Fountain avenue are building, for the purpose of draining into Bradshaw creek which passes under Broadway near by.

A ditch has been dug and an 8-in. pipe laid, but today Mayor Lang stopped operations by issuing an order to the residents to proceed no further in the work without an order from the board of health. As there is a pool of water that stands continuously below where it is proposed to empty the sewer water into the creek, Mayor Lang thinks it is inimical to the health of the locality to permit the sewer pipes to be laid. The board of health will decide the question.

PRELIMINARY HEARING

OF THOMAS HANNON, WHO IS CHARGED WITH MURDER, BEGAN TODAY.

Much Evidence Heard—Man Sent to the Lockup For Contempt. Other Police News.

The preliminary trial of Thomas Hannon, charged with the murder of Will Hall, was begun in the police court this morning, Judge Sanders presiding.

The evidence adduced was substantially the same as at the coroner's inquest. G. W. Hall, father of the murdered man, talked himself into the lockup during the progress of the trial. While Mrs. Hall was testifying he insisted in interjecting questions to the intense annoyance of the court. Judge Sanders several times ordered him to desist, but he broke forth again finally, and Judge Sanders sent him to the lockup for three hours. He was not released until after noon.

Hannon, the defendant, claimed that the shooting occurred in the hall instead of Hall's room, and that Hall was threatening him with an ax when he fired.

At press time the case was still on trial, and may not be finished today.

Allan Waters, alias "Dummy," who lost his hearing years ago from typhoid fever, and consequently forgot how to talk, was presented in the police court this morning on a charge of flourishing a pistol. "Dummy"
